Practica

- Verificar en qué rama estoy trabajando git checkout activity, este comando asegura que estamos en la rama activity, desde la cual queremos llevar los cambios a qa.

PS C:\Apache24\htdocs\ADS0-2899747> git checkout activity
Already on 'activity'
Your branch is up to date with 'origin/activity'.
```

- Actualizar la rama actual con los últimos cambios remotos git pull origin activity esto descarga y combina los últimos cambios que están en el repositorio remoto dentro de activity, evitando conflictos posteriores.

PS C:\Apache24\htdocs\ADS0-2899747> git pull origin activity
From https://github.com/carlosJavierRodriguez/ADS0-2899747
 * branch                activity    -> FETCH_HEAD
Already up to date.

- Cambiar a la rama de QA git checkout qa, aquí me muevo a la rama qa.

PS C:\Apache24\htdocs\ADS0-2899747> git checkout qa branch 'qa' set up to track 'origin/qa'.
Switched to a new branch 'qa'
```

- Actualizar la rama qa con los cambios remotos git pull origin qa Esto asegura que la rama qa local esté sincronizada con su versión remota antes de hacer el merge.

PS C:\Apache24\htdocs\ADS0-2899747> git pull origin qa
From https://github.com/carlosJavierRodriguez/ADS0-2899747
 * branch                qa          -> FETCH_HEAD
Already up to date.

- En este paso uní los cambios de la rama activity a la rama qa.
El resultado fue un Fast-forward, lo que significa que no hubo conflictos y Git simplemente adelantó la rama qa para incluir los últimos cambios.
Se añadieron nuevos documentos, archivos .pdf y .gitkeep para mantener la estructura de carpetas.

PS C:\Apache24\htdocs\ADS0-2899747> git merge activity

- Aca subí los cambios de la rama qa al repositorio remoto, quedando actualizada con el contenido proveniente de activity.

PS C:\Apache24\htdocs\ADS0-2899747> git push origin qa

- Final mente en github podemos evidencias que si están todos los archivos que llame de la rama activity.
